Igniting the Flame: Youth, Mission, Vocation

Being young means having a lot of energy and hope, finding the purpose of life and what matters most. In a world full of noise, the call to mission offers clarity and a sense of fulfillment. Finding one's personal calling is like discovering a hidden treasure-unique and meant to make the world a brighter place.

Young people need courage, self-reflection, and the guidance of mentors. Through mission experiences, they catch a glimpse of their true purpose, which opens their eyes, transforms their hearts, and sparks a lifelong passion for service. This deeply roots their faith in compassion and understanding.

As we hand over the responsibility to the next generation, we get to see the powerful combination of youthful enthusiasm, mission work, and finding one's vocation all of which shape the leaders of tomorrow and ensures that the light of faith continues to shine.

Students in Brazil Spread Hope by Serving Others

Colégio Santa Maria's educational mission extends and goes beyond academics; it aims to cultivate caring citizens. Students from the school demonstrate their compassion to patients in a hospital.

Students from Colégio Santa Maria in Cascavel, Brazil, recently participated in the "Mission without Borders" project embodying the spirit of Easter. During the octave of Easter, students of various ages, supported by an organization of lay missionaries, prepared and distributed fresh, nutritious sandwiches to patients and caregivers at a local hospital.

This initiative went beyond a charitable act; it was a profound expression of empathy and care, demonstrating how small gestures can make a significant impact on the lives of those enduring difficult times.

The project allowed students to connect with individuals beyond the school walls, offering not only physical nourishment but also emotional comfort. Their presence and kindness provided a moment of human warmth, instilling hope and showing the power of compassion in action. The experience reinforced the values of compassion, social responsibility, and service to others, which are central to Colégio Santa Maria's educational mission.

The school community takes great pride in the students' dedication, recognizing that true education extends beyond academic achievements. It involves shaping conscientious and caring citizens who actively participate in building a more just and humane society.

Sister Marili Fernandes, the school's headmaster, emphasized the importance of this outreach and announced plans to continue the project every two weeks.

Through these ongoing efforts, the school aims to inspire both students and the broader community to cultivate compassion and solidarity in their everyday lives.

Young Catholics in Russia Navigate a Changing World

The Diocese of St. Joseph of Irkutsk, Russia, organized a youth meeting to strengthen the faith and character of young Catholics. Through various activities and teachings, the event aimed to equip participants with the tools to navigate the challenges of globalization while remaining true to their faith.

Young Catholics are the backbone of the Church today and in the future. The Diocese of St. Joseph of Irkutsk, Russia, embraced this concept at the XXII Diocesan Youth Meeting held from August 1-4, 2024. Approximately 70 youth gathered, accompanied by priests and sisters from various congregations.

The mentoring sessions, led by Fr. Adrian SVD and Sr. Juliana Gostkowska, covered essential topics such as self-identity in Christ, spiritual life and personal prayer, recognizing spiritual gifts, and building healthy relationships.

Engaging games fostered enthusiasm, cohesiveness, and teamwork, while teaching participants to handle life's challenges and find strength in God. These activities, combined with presentations, helped develop creativity and responsibility among the youth.

Sr. Juliana facilitating the sessions

Participants were also taught to understand various vocations in life and how to seek their calling according to God's plan. This blend of creativity, Catholic values, and practical application equips the younger generation to remain strong amidst globalization.

The unity of heart, commitment, and shared challenges created an atmosphere of joy. The participants' missionary spirit became a light for others, culminating in a Eucharistic Celebration that emphasized the centrality of Catholic faith.

By providing continuous guidance, the Church contributes to touching the hearts, souls, and minds of young people, helping them remain faithful to Jesus, the source of strength and salvation for mankind.

Inspiring Youth and Nurturing Hope Amid War in Ukraine

In the face of war and uncertainty, the SSpS works with young people in Ukraine to provide spiritual support and nurture hope and resilience in a generation striving for a better future.

Young people play a key role in shaping a just society and remain a powerful force for truth and solidarity, even in the midst of war. The Sisters Servants of the Holy Spirit are deeply committed to guiding the youth of Ukraine, providing spiritual support, and fostering resilience in these challenging times. Through retreats, weekly meetings, and the creation of safe community spaces, the Sisters help young people seek God, support one another, and navigate their faith.

In our parishes, we hold weekly gatherings where the youth can discuss faith, share their experiences, and find comfort. These meetings offer a space to explore their relationship with God, address fears, and pray for loved ones on the front lines. Retreats like "Chosen by God: On a Journey with Moses" allow them to uncover God's unique plan for their lives and understand the true meaning of freedom and the Commandments.

To further build community, we transformed a room in the parish house into a dedicated meeting space, crafted with the help of the youth. This space, which they call "theirs," strengthens their connection to the Church and to each other.

In these times of conflict, today's youth are asking profound questions and seeking answers. Our mission is to create an environment where they can encounter the living God who fulfills their deepest longings.

Strength Through Prayer: A Community Journey in Korea

A Sister's community has repurposed their former formation house to accommodate students to encounter. A prayer gathering has unexpectedly deepened their spiritual connection, unity, and mission spirit.

We live in a small community in Ahyon-dong, Korea, a place that once served as a formation house.

Due to a decline in religious vocations, we repurposed the house to welcome students from other countries. Despite this shift, our sisters continue to seek new ministries, engaging in activities such as vocation promotion, supporting Holy Spirit Missionary Associates (HSMA), and preparing the provincial bulletin.

After discussing our community goals for this year, we felt called to reach out to those around us, especially those in need. One way we chose to do this was through prayer. We began hosting a Holy Hour once a month, inviting young HSMA members, neighbors, young women, and even their mothers to join us in this spiritual gathering.

To our surprise, opening our home and coming together for prayer brought us renewed energy and a deeper connection in our spiritual lives. The prayer group, named "Ie-pum," meaning "leaning on Jesus's bosom," has become a space share our joys and sorrows, much like reclining on Jesus.

This journey has taught us to walk humbly together, when we are sent to different places. Through this prayer ministry, which was not meticulously planned but grew organically,

Growing in Christ:
Communication and Solidarity

Sr. Juana Ortega has been spiritually guiding a group of teenagers and young adults through growth sessions and equipping them with skills and values to share the Gospel effectively.

Sr. Juana guiding a group of teenagers and young adults.

In the Diocese of Beira, Mozambique, where I have been living and working for four years, I have had the privilege of spiritually accompanying a group of teenagers and people aged between 13 and 20. Each year, new members join while others leave to continue their studies elsewhere, keeping the group size between 30 and 40. We meet weekly to rehearse hymns and sing at Sunday Mass.

We also visit young people and teenagers in our parish. During these visits, we pray together, exchange experiences, and socialize, creating bonds of friendship and support.

We organize training sessions, retreats, and recreational activities.

Once a year, we visit the elderly or children, to bring cheer and offer gestures of solidarity. The goal is to foster friendships, provide tools for healthy growth, and help these young individuals awaken their vocation. Teenagers and young people teach me patience, solidarity, and creativity, while challenging me to walk at their pace and find ways to provide them with both human and spiritual formation.

I also serve as the deputy coordinator of the archdiocesan communications team. Over the past two years, we have been working to train teenagers and young people who are interested in the communications ministry. We offer them regular theoretical and practical training and guide them in managing publications and social media.

By August, we had formed two groups-one in the urban area with 45 members and another in the rural area with 30 members. Communication ministry is demanding, but I am grateful to be able to help these young people communicate with values grounded in the ethics of the Gospel.

Sr. Juan Ortega Torres – Province of Mozambique

The program's goal is to foster friendships, human and spiritual formation, and to help them awaken their vocation.

Holistic Youth Education and Mission in Paraguay

The SSpS schools in Paraguay are committed to holistic youth formation through education, as demonstrated by the recent inauguration of new learning facilities and meetings of educators, both of which emphasize integrating Christian values and academic excellence to empower young people as to be ethical and compassionate leaders for the future.

Meeting of educators of all SSpS schools in Paraguay.

The SSpS has long been dedicated to holistic and inclusive education, deeply rooted in Christian values. At the forefront of this mission is the 'Basic School Nº 1292 Priv. Espíritu Santo' in Pirapó, Paraguay. Founded in 1979 in response to the needs of the local community, the school strives to promote the formation of young people, shaping them to become ethical, civic-minded individuals who contribute to a more just and fraternal society.

The school inaugurated three new facilities on July 31, 2024-a laboratory, a library, and a computer room. The event was marked by a Eucharistic celebration led by Francisco Javier Pistilli, Bishop of the Diocese of Our Lady of the Incarnation, and attended by educators, students, and parents. The new spaces are to provide students with the tools necessary for comprehensive learning. These facilities not only enhance academic knowledge but also promote values and skills essential for the contemporary world.

In the same spirit of educational commitment, the Meeting of Educators of SSpS Schools took place on July 24th at the Holy Spirit of Mary Help of Christians School in Maria Auxiliadora, Itapúa, Paraguay.

The gathering of around 100 educators focused on the motto, "Prayer helps us to understand and compassion allows us to act." It provided an invaluable platform for educators to reflect on their practices in the light of Trinitarian spirituality and Catholic principles. The event also fostered stronger bonds among educators, reaffirming their shared mission alongside the SSpS to nurture the young minds entrusted to their care.

Through these efforts, the SSpS schools in Paraguay continue to embody holistic education. By combining spiritual formation with academic excellence, they prepare young people not just for the future but also to be active, compassionate participants in transforming society today.

PANAM SSpS Junior Sisters Renew Commitment in Brazil

Junior SSpS Sisters from across the American continent gathered in July in São Paulo. The event was marked by intercultural exchange, spiritual reflection, and a renewed commitment to their religious missionary vocation.

SSpS Sisters in temporary vows (junior sisters) from various countries across the American continent gathered for the 5th PANAM Junior Sisters' Meeting. The event, themed "Invited to be Instruments of God's Compassion Towards the Marginalized of Society and All Creation," offered a profound experience, as shared by Sister Rosecleia Vasco dos Santos.

The gathering from July 14 to 18 at the Holy Trinity Convent in São Paulo, Brazil had two participants from the United States, four from Paraguay, nine from Brazil, one from Misiones (Argentina), and one from Mexico.

The meeting was characterized by diverse cultures and languages (English, Portuguese, and Spanish). Reflecting on the words of St. Joseph Freinademetz that "The language of love is the only language that all peoples understand," and Psalm 145:9 "The Lord is good to all, and his compassion extends to all creatures," the sisters explored their vocation as SSpS members and discussed how they could engage more deeply in caring for creation.

A highlight of the meeting was a visit to the Basilica of Our Lady of Aparecida in Aparecida, São Paulo, where the sisters participated in a Eucharistic celebration. This time of prayer and unity reinforced their mission and connection to the God of life who sends them forth.

As the gathering concluded, the sisters shared their experiences and gratitude. The election of a new team of officers to animate the group marked the end of this remarkable week. The event was a joyful and significant intercultural experience, filled with gratitude for the religious missionary vocation. As servants of God's love, the sisters left with renewed light and purpose, ready to "Go and proclaim the Gospel to all peoples."

Discovering Faith and Community from a Voluntary Year

A program in Germany allows participants to live, work, and pray with religious communities. A youth reflects on her transformative experience during her six-month stay with the SSpS community in Frankfurt.

Nora (left) experiencing a voluntary year of lived faith with people in the clothing café and the Sisters (below).

The German Conference of Superiors of Religious Orders, an association of all religious communities in Germany, offers the program "Voluntary Year of Religious Orders" in cooperation with individual communities. This program provides people with the opportunity to live in a religious community for three to twelve months, allowing them to pray, work, and learn alongside the communities.

Nora Wohnhas, a trained carpenter, decided to participate in this religious year, spending six months in the SSpS community in Frankfurt. Reflecting on her experience, the 26-year-old shared: "Not only in the conversations, but also through the very simple living of the everyday life of the Sisters, some 'lights' came to me. I have found here what lived faith can look like! I see it every Friday afternoon in the 'KleiderCafé' (clothing café) -where people, with and without a home, are invited for coffee, cake, and shopping in the second-hand boutique. I see it in the design and liveliness of the local church. I see the faith lived in the sisters' dealings with me and with each other, and I see and find it here in such a way that makes me want to live this faith. A faith that brings joy, that celebrates life, and that respects people and tries to love them. I found a different way of learning during that time-not by reading, cramming, or endless repetition, but by seeing, listening, and participating. When I look back, I sometimes have the feeling that I have actively contributed very little to my 'learning' here. To put it in the words of my faith: Many things are simply a gift from God!"

A Day of Joy with Children Through Faith in Russia

The SSpS with the Obereg Charitable Foundation organized a day filled with activities that brought joy to the children. The event was a success, leaving everyone with a deep sense of satisfaction and gratitude for God's providence.

An atmosphere of joy and love with the families enjoying the day of outing.

The primary mission of the Obereg Charitable Foundation is to support families in difficult situations, aiming to prevent children from being separated from their parents and placed in orphanages. The foundation provides special care and attention to children from diverse backgrounds, ensuring their physical and psychological well-being.

As part of this mission, the SSpS in Irkutsk, Russia, along with Fr. Rahul VM SVD, organized a spiritual outing for 40 mothers and children to the Taltsy Museum.

Upon arrival, the mothers and their children were given time to enjoy the beauty of nature and explore the museum's architecture. The group later gathered to share their life experiences. They openly discussed the challenges they face, yet their strength and resilience were evident in every story. Their deep gratitude to God was clear, as they recognized His love through the care and support they receive from others.

Various activities were held with the children, such as drawing, singing, playing, and dancing. They were very eager to participate in all these activities, accompanied by the Sisters and their parents. The atmosphere brought joy to their hearts as well as ours, and at the end, we could feel a sense of satisfaction for being part of this great mission, recognizing God's providence throughout the event, which made it successful.

Crossing Borders: First PANAM Communication Assembly

The assembly of SSpS and lay partners at the service of communications gathered to discuss and plan for the future of communication in the PANAM continent. The event featured expert guidance, insightful discussions, and collaborative workshops focused on the evolving landscape of digital communication.

The First PANAM Communication Assembly took place from August 21 to 25, 2024, at the Holy Trinity Convent in São Paulo, Brazil. The event brought together SSpS sisters and lay partners to discuss and plan the future of congregational communication in the PANAM continent.

The theme "Crossing Borders, Sailing Together in the Digital Ocean Sharing the Light of the Gospel," resonated deeply with all participants.

A key highlight of the assembly was the valuable guidance of Sr. Neusa Santos, CIIC, whose wisdom and experience contributed to the success of the event.

The assembly began with an online presentation by Sr. Elaine Faith Taneo, who discussed the current state of communication services at the congregational level, as the Congregational Communications Coordinator.

The assembly of planning and workshops resulted in the creation of key projects.

Reports from various provinces and regions provided an overview of the communication ministry in different localities. Additionally, there were informative talks on artificial intelligence, generational dynamics (including Generations Alpha, Z, and Y), and the impact of social media.

The workshops led to the development of two key projects: one focused on engaging young people and the other on the ongoing formation of sisters and laity.

As the assembly concluded, participants expressed deep gratitude and a renewed commitment to our shared journey, confident that we are now more empowered than ever to cross borders and share the light of the Gospel.

Nurturing Faith and Creativity in Ruteng, Indonesia

The SSpS mission to educate and develop young people in various regions of Flores, Indonesia has been blessed with success, reaching more than 100 participants across different areas. The creative activities nurture the next generation's faith and talents, while also cultivating potential vocations for religious life.

The Sisters accompany the young people in their journey of searching for their personal vocation.

We are deeply grateful to God for the abundant blessings that have enabled us to carry out our mission of educating and developing young people in the Raba-Bima, Mondu-Sumba, Reo, and Rai areas of the Ruteng region of Flores, Indonesia. Through various activities at schools and parishes, we have had the joy of guiding these young minds in deepening their faith in the Holy Bible and cultivating their creativity through handicrafts.

Even at an early age, children are trained to be creative, allowing them to develop their talents and abilities. Although there are challenges in ensuring consistent participation, we take pride in the enthusiasm and dedication of the young people who, despite difficulties, willingly give their time and energy to engage in these programs. Attendance has been encouraging, with 25 participants in Mondu-Sumba, 20 in Raba-Bima, 40 in Reo-Ruteng, and 30 in Rai-Ruteng.

This project has been instrumental in facilitating our activities, and providing the necessary financial support to ensure programs run smoothly. We are thankful that the funds received have allowed us to focus on training and educating young people, enhancing their creativity and deepening their understanding of the Catholic faith through Bible quizzes and faith-sharing sessions.

The future of our Province looks promising as we witness young people growing in confidence. We hope that by accompanying them on this journey, we can nurture the seeds of vocation, inspiring some to pursue a life as priests or nuns.
